PREFACE

NARIC is a rehabilitation information center funded by the National Institute of Handicapped Research, U.S. Department of Education. NARIC offers a wide variety of information services including referrals to local organizations. In order to effectively respond to inquiries received for these resources the NARIC Information Team compiled individual state guides. In July of 1985, D:ATA Institute, an organization committed to fostering the dissemination of disability-related information decided, in cooperation with NARIC, to publish these state guides as a directory of disability-related information resources. It is hoped this directory will be a useful handbook for individuals seeking to identify sources of assistance and information in their local area.

Although every effort has been made to assure that the information in the directory is accurate, it is nevertheless a reality that organizational names and addresses frequently change. We welcome any updated information our readers may have regarding the organizations or individuals included in this directory.

INTRODUCTION

This directory provides contact information for disability-related resources available in all fifty states and the District of Columbia. The directory is organized alphabetically by state. The following are the categories of resources provided:

Vocational Rehabilitation Office

Counselors coordinate therapeutic evaluation, counseling, training and placement services and can refer clients to community resources, such as independent living centers.

Client Assistance Program

Gives advice and assistance to vocational rehabilitation clients and potential clients. Informs disabled persons of their rights to services and provides legal assistance if needed.

Governor's Committee

Usually called "Committee on Employment of the Handicapped," but may have another name. Works with community employers to promote the hiring of disabled persons.

Protection and Advocacy Agency

Provides support to people of all ages who have developmental disabilities. Services, which vary from state to state, may include referral, counseling and legal assistance.

Developmental Disabilities Planning Council

Provides funding for programs that serve people with developmental disabilities, usually through local, non-profit agencies.

Special Education Agency

This division of each State's Department of Education administers special education programs and has information on specific services in each state.

Model Independent Living Centers

Lists Independent Living Centers (ILC) which have been identified by the Texas Institute for Rehabilitation Research as model programs. ILC offer services such as housing assistance, attendant care, peer counseling, and advocacy.

State Parent Representative

State Parent Representatives can help in locating parent groups, federally funded parent training programs, and other information of interest to parents.

Categories are deleted if no organization has been identified as serving in this capacity for a particular state.

All contact information was verified during July 1985.
